VOTES FOR WOMEN PARADE AN IMPRESSIVE SPECTACLE TO RESPECTFUL CROWDS

STREET-WIDE BANNERS.

From Washington Square to the Plaza Procession Moves to Mass Meetings.

Women on horseback, led by Miss Inez Mithelland, and preceded by a formidable escort of police, paraded up Fifth avenue this afternoon from Washington Square ahead of the greatest and most impressive Votes for Women parade this country has ever known. Hundreds of organizations sent women young and old in uniform to take the demonstration for the cause of universal suffrage. Bands made the avenue vibrant with music, crowds along the sidewalks cheered either in approval or good nature. All in all it was a great day for the suffragists and most encouraging to them. The parade started promptly at 3 o'clock.

DEPUTY FIRE CHIEFS AUTO UPSETS PARADE.

When the parade had reached Sixteenth street a serious disturbance was caused by the reckless action of a deputy fire chief on his way to a fire. West Broadway and Duane, believed to have been Chief Martin, who chose to whirl his automobile into Fifth avenue and run down the line of the parade for two blocks. Instead of avoiding it, women bumped and pushed each other and fell in heaps seeking out of the way as he went through them. Southbound traffic was completely stopped. One was hurt as nearly as the police could learn.

Fire was indirectly the cause of the only other incident which disturbed the parade of the line on the way to the reviewing stand at the Public Library building. An automobile exploded and landed up in Fifth street near Fifth avenue and several thousands of people lined the police lines and got in the street. The automobile was dragged away still burning and the street was instantly cleared, but the line and to broken and halted until the engines could pass.

Among city officials in the reviewing stand were Borough President McAneny, Comptroller Prendergast, Sheriff Harbinger, Superintendent of Schools Maxwell and Dr. John Winter Brannan of the Bureau of Health.

Some men marched with them, but, as they did not wear uniforms, they were in rather contrast to the glow and sparkle and blaze of color of their sisters, wives, mothers and sweethearts. Suffrage yellow gleamed from sashes, and suffrage green, white and purple glowed everywhere, from bobbing banners carried high over the uniform white-coated hats which adorned the heads of the great majority of the paraders.

Miss Inez Mithelland, dashing as ever, was cheered all along the avenue as she rode at the head of twenty other horsewomen in white, just behind the police escort. There were others also for "Gon." Rosalie Jones, who led the devoted bands of hikers who went from this city to Albany and Washington in order to create interest in the cause.

MRS. BURLESON, THE COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF.

Mrs. Richard Coke Burleson, who commanded the abused Washington parade, was the commander-in-chief. Her marshals were Miss Porritt, Miss F. Treat and Miss O'Keefe. Miss Elena Barrell of the Corporation Counsel's office commanded a division of devil servants made up of clerks in municipal and State bureaus in this city. Miss Josephine Beiderhies was Grand Marshal.

HERMAN RIDDER APPOINTED NEW HEAD OF PRISONS

Suizer Withdraws Name of Weed, Sends in That of Editor and Senate Confirms It.

(Special to The Evening World.) ALBANY, May 3.—Herman Ridder of New York, proprietor of the Staats Zeitung newspaper and a Tammany man, was nominated by Gov. Sulzer for the office of State Superintendent of Prisons this afternoon. The Senate, on motion of Majority Leader Robert F. Wagner, confirmed the nomination by a viva voce vote.

Gov. Sulzer has Mr. Ridder's assurance that he will accept the office, which is one of the most important in the State in view of the investigation of the State prisons that is now under way under the management of George W. Blake and the many changes and improvements—and, perhaps, prosecutions—that will grow out of this investigation.

The appointment of Mr. Ridder was a last minute settlement of a problem that has been vexing the Governor ever since he took office. Early in his administration he ordered Superintendent of Prisons Scott to appoint Thomas Hattigan of Auburn as Warden of the Auburn Prison. Scott refused, and the Governor after considerable manoeuvring removed Scott.

Then the Governor, to remain on terms of friendship with Thomas Mott Osborne of Auburn, the insurgent Democratic leader, nominated Judge John B. Riley of Clinton for the post of Prison Superintendent. Judge Riley was not satisfactory to the Senate and the nomination was held up in the Finance Committee.

Last night the Governor withdrew Judge Riley's name and substituted that of George M. Wood of Plattsburg. Judge Riley's law partner and a son of Smith M. Wood, once leader of the Northern New York Democratic machine. The nomination of Mr. Wood was not acted on by the committee.

It became apparent before the Senate convened this afternoon in final session that Mr. Wood's nomination would not be confirmed. Gov. Sulzer was faced with the proposition of quick action and he sent in the name of Mr. Ridder.

He also resubmitted the name of John Mitchell, former President of the United Mine Workers of America. Mr. Mitchell's nomination was reported out of committee and unanimously rejected by the Senate on motion of Senator Wagner.

Herman Ridder has always been prominent in local and State politics. He is considered the leading German democrat of the State.

Suicide Dale Left $300,000 Estate. Theodore Brodski Dale, the midge dressmaker who shot himself in his apartment March 26, left $300,000 to equip two beds in Mount Sinai Hospital, according to his will, which was filed today. The residue of Dale's estate, $300,000, goes to his uncle, Maurice Brodski of London, who is directed to collect $15,000 from E. O. Weiss of No. 794 Sixth avenue, which the testator says was deposited to provide bail for Dale when he was arrested, charged with a criminal offense.

Man Prostrated by Heat. An unidentified man was found lying unconscious on the steps of Trinity Hospital in East New York this afternoon by Ambulance Surgeon Campbell. He seemed to be suffering from heat prostration, and it was assumed he had gone to the hospital for aid. He was short and stout and wore a black suit and a white striped shirt.

HOTTEST MAY 3 BRINGS OUT MANY OLD STRAW HATS

Siberian Tiger in Central Park Zoo Topples Over Victim of Heat.

Hot enough for you? Well, don't get mad about it! Everybody else has got to stand for it, and it isn't any hotter than it was yesterday. Eighty-seven in the shade. Hot enough for your old straw lid, if you dare take a chance.

This is the hottest record for May 3 in forty-four years. In 1878 the temperature reached 81 degrees. Electric fans have come into their own again. They are busy as bees in the subway and other places where people gather. And the surface cars are running wide open.

The waistcoat is being cast off and the winter undersuit has been packed in moth balls, while the gin rickey has taken the place of highballs. Many changes have taken place in the last few days.

It isn't all the weather man's fault either. To be sure he's mixed up in it, but the real seat of heat is over there in the Azores. There is a large area of high barometer (hot air) over in the islands west of Spain. It's a far cry from here to the Azores, but just the same the condition over there gives us the Coney Island weather.

STAGNATION OF AIR CURRENTS CAUSE OF IT ALL. You see there is a stagnation of the air currents, and that stops the west and east movement, you see. Well, if there is no circulation, with the sun shining down upon us, we get a large accumulation of heat at the surface, and where you get heat, it's going to be hot.

Is that perfectly plain? There were only two cases of heat prostration. One occurred in Brooklyn, and the other in the Central Park zoo. A man on a yacht succumbed to the Brooklyn rays, and Dick, the tiger in the zoo, was bowled over. Neither case was serious. But here's good news for about 13,000,000 people. It's going to be hot again to-morrow, and what's the matter with Coney? Yes, there'll be something doing at Coney Island to-morrow. When Bill Snyder, head keeper of the

BEULAH B. EDMANSON

Central Park Zoo, offered Dick, the largest Siberian tiger in captivity, his afternoon tea today, there was no response—not a single word of gracious acceptance—not a single growl of gasconade. The tiger lay flat on his back, his tongue hanging out, and his eyes closed. He was simply overcome with the heat.

NOT DICK'S CUSTOM TO BE SO UNRESPONSIVE. It was not Dick's custom to be indifferent about his meals. He could show all the fifty-seven varieties of emotion toward spectators who came to admire him, but his approval of the food set before him had always been frank and unrefined. Snyder, sure that the worst had come, rushed into the cage without even taking the animal hook, which is the usual thing to take with you when you go

WOMEN WITNESSES HELP ALIBI DEFENSE AT INSPECTORS' TRIAL

Wife of Sweeney Contradicts Walsh's Testimony of Visit—Nuns Who Nursed Thompson Deny Captain Visited Him in Hospital.

WITNESS HEARD SIPP SAY HE WOULD "GET" SWEENEY.

Counsel Decides to Put None of Four Defendants on Stand—Jury to Get Case on Monday.

FEATURES OF THE TESTIMONY. William J. Hayes, former Sheriff, was subjected to a hot cross-examination after testifying that he did not influence Sweeney to close Sipp's second hotel in Harlem. Mr. Moss aroused his anger by asking how many thugs and other disorderly persons were members of his association.

Mrs. Sweeney testified that her husband was with her during the entire night Walsh swore he visited him in his sick room and got part of the Sipp bribe.

Thomas McCormick, clerk of a Liberty, N. Y., hotel, showed by the register that Capt. Thompson was at the hotel from Dec. 27 to Dec. 31, 1912. This is the period during which Sipp was absent from the State.

Lieut. McDermott produced the blotter of the West One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street station, which recorded Thompson as starting on a five-days' vacation Dec. 26.

Dr. Carter of St. Vincent's Hospital, testified that Thompson was a typhoid fever patient, delirious for ten days, when, according to Walsh, the latter delivered a share of graft to him.

City Marshal Mulvihill swore Sipp told him he would spend his last dollar to "get" Sweeney, after Sipp was prevented from opening the Central Hotel in Harlem. Sipp also blamed Leader Nicholas J. Hayes in the matter, it was testified.

William J. McGrath of Liberty swore Thompson was his guest there from Aug. 4 to Sept. 27, 1909, a period when Walsh testified he had paid graft to Thompson.

Several nuns, nurses at St. Vincent's, testified that Thompson saw only his wife and Hugh Slavin, a relative, while he was in hospital. The defense rested at 4.30.

The defense of former Police Inspectors Dennis Sweeney, James E. Hussey, James F. Thompson and John J. Murtha, on trial before Supreme Court Justice Seabury for conspiracy to obstruct justice, approached its close to-day with the testimony of character and alibi witnesses. It had been decided yesterday that none of the accused men should take the witness stand in their own defense, with the possible exception of Murtha, and to-day it was determined to submit his case to the jury without a word from him.

An attack on the testimony of Walsh and Sipp was part of the campaign. An effort to discredit both for self-interest was made.

By arrangement with Justice Seabury of the Foundation Company, was called first as a character witness for Murtha. Mr. Gilbert examined: "Do you know Murtha?" he asked. "Yes, I know him when he was in charge of the Eastern Guard in 1908. He was of very great service there," answered the witness. Mr. Murtha could say but little more about Murtha and was not cross-examined. Mr. Stanfield then called Dr. Charles M. Carter, who was house physician at St. Vincent's Hospital in 1908. Capt. Thomas for Walsh had testified that he paid graft to Thompson, while the latter was an inmate of the hospital suffering from typhoid fever. Dr. Carter testified that Thompson had been a patient from June 21 to August 1, 1908. Walsh, it will be recalled, thought Thompson went into the hospital in the
